EXTENSIONS TO STEPHEN MOOR LODGE TOSSIDE.

DESIGN AND ACCESS STATEMENT.

PROCESS.

The existing building consists of an original farmhouse and converted barn in natural random sandstone and blue slate roof. There is an unsightly upvc conservatory on the front which is to be removed. There is also a glazed timber lean-to utility room, at the rear, which is both unsightly and rotting. All of these elements are shown on the enclosed plans as existing and photographs. The owner wishes to replace the conservatory with a porch and also the glazed lean-to with a stone and slate extension on the same footprint.

USE.

Existing use, as dwelling, unchanged. The porch would replace the conservatory over the front door. The Utility would remain as such to the rear.

AMOUNT

The floor area of the existing conservatory is 9.6 sq M. The floor area of the new porch is 2.1 sq M. This is much less than the floor area of the conservatory and the Utility room extension is on the same footprint as the original. To put this in perspective the total floor area of the house is 296sq.M so the extensions are a small proportion of this.

LAYOUT

The utility is on the same footprint as the original and porch as the conservatory.

SCALE.

This is in keeping with the context of the site and building both in position and size. It does not affect amenity space. See notes on areas in "AMOUNT", above.

LANDSCAPING.

There will minimal alterations to the existing, mainly re-laying existing path at front with flags and making good to stream banking.

APPEARANCE.

The form and materials used for the extensions is in keeping with the existing building in size, style and detailing. All roofs in matching slate, walls in matching natural stone and windows in matching timber.

ACCESS.

There is no change to the vehicular access. The front door remains as existing but approached through the porch rather than conservatory.
