Higher Parkhead Cottage
Accrington Road
Whalley
Bb79DN

6th January 2012

Heritage statement.

Higher Parkhead Cottage (and Parkhead Farmhouse) is a house possibly late Tudor in date, surrounded by Victorian farm buildings.

Higher Parkhead Cottage (and Parkhead Farmhouse) consists of a long main range facing south east. The single storey porch at the west end (Parkhead Farmhouse) is the original part of the building dating probably from the 1580's or 90's. Each successive century has left many alterations i.e. the massive internal stone wall that was built probably in the mid-17th century (dividing Higher Parkhead Cottage from Parkhead Farmhouse) and further alterations to the interior took place in the 18th and 19th centuries.

The rear of the building has some poorly constructed stone work and not insulated due to the age of the building. The stonework surrounding the existing centre window is especially poor and there is an excessive amount of draft coming into the house.

The repositioning of the stonework will not have a big impact on the house itself, the stones will be repositioned to minimize the draft and to enable a better fitting of the proposed change of window to the original size.
