To whom it may concern.

This is to verify that the existing septic tank that was installed over 10years ago will accommodate the proposed new lodges which each contain 1 toilet.

The existing restaurant had previously 2 sets of toilet blocks one for male and one for female. The male toilets consisted of 6 urinals and 6 toilets with 4 wash hand basins. The female toilets consisted of 6 toilets and wash hand basins. During a refurbishment inside the male toilets was removed and the female toilets where removed. The existing location for the female toilets was then split to accommodate both male and female toilets. There are now only 4 toilets, 3 wash hand basins and 2 urinals.

Therefore, the water usage through flow for the septic tank that was originally sized for the larger capacity is now reduced therefore not working to its full capacity. Any additional toilets added to system should in no way be a detriment to the septic tank as at present there are fewer toilets, urinals and wash hand basins connected to the foul drainage.

The septic tank will accommodate the new proposed lodges as their usage would normally be outside of restaurant time making it more than suitable as a septic tank works on volume of liquid flowing in not on how many toilets, sinks etc are on the foul drainage system.
